

Betty the Lion

Once there lived a lion. Her name was Betty. She lived with her friend Melanie the mouse. Betty was very pretty, smart, and very sweet. You would think that all of the lions would want her to be their girlfriend. But there was just one small problem. The boy lions already had girlfriends.

Betty was very lonely, until one day a new very hansom lion came to town. They became good friends and did every thing together. Betty was very excited. Jack asked Betty to be his girlfriend and she said yes.

As months went by they decided to get married. Soon they had two little lions and lived happily ever after.
